This Week In News: Wednesday, April 17, 2019

Hello,

Happy Wednesday! This is my favorite time of year. It finally feels like spring. The winter is finally (finally!) over. Plus, my birthday is Monday, April 29. So, you know, plan accordingly.

As I mentioned in last week's newsletter, we have collected and compiled your questions for the candidates running in the Tuesday, May 7, 2019 Marion County municipal primary election. After receiving dozens of votes, we've now sent out six questions for each of the candidates running for Indianapolis mayor and the 25 City-County Council seats.

However, I still need your help. I downloaded the information provided by each candidate to the Marion County Election Board. I used the information in this spreadsheet to call the candidates on the phone who I wasn't able to find a working email address for on Facebook, Twitter, or their campaign website. (Some have all three. Others have none of the above.) After speaking with several of the candidates over the phone, I was able to find contact information for almost all of the candidates. Even after all that, I was still unable to find working email addresses for the following candidates:

Indianapolis Mayor: Denise Paul Hatch (D)

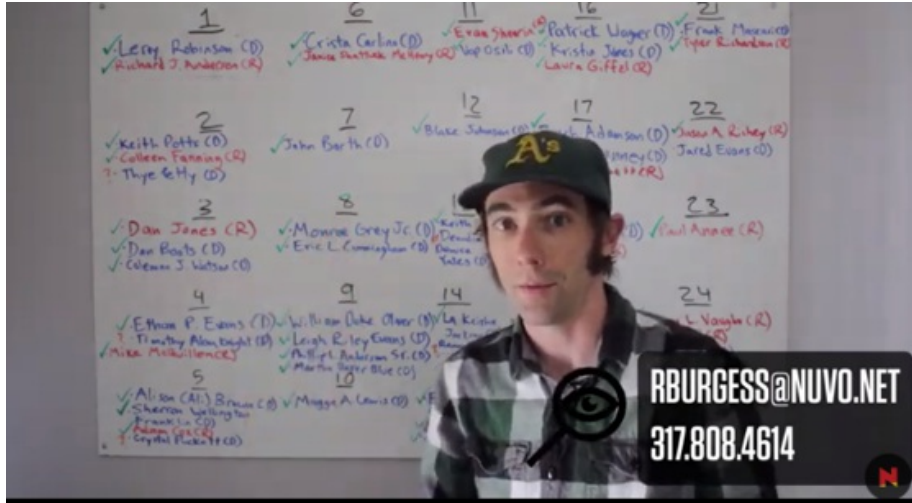

District 2: Thye Petty (D)

District 4: Timothy Alan Knight (D)

District 5: Crystal Puckett (D)

District 13: Deanda Denise Yates (D)

District 17: Joseph Denney (D)

Rob Needs Your Help

(Note: Since we filmed that video on Monday I was able to speak with Rena Allen and I now have her email address. Sorry again for mispronouncing your first name.)

This morning, I contacted the Marion County Democratic Party to see if they could be of any assistance. I received the following reply from Caroline Ellert, executive director, regarding the last six candidates I am still missing:

“Unfortunately I do not have contact info for these individuals, as they are not official party-endorsed candidates. I'm sorry I can't be of more help.”

So, I'm now resorting to regular mail in one last attempt to reach these candidates.

If you know the email addresses for any of them, please let me know at rburgess@nuvo.net. I want to include all the candidates in these races, and I want to make sure they get a chance to respond by the deadline of Friday, April 26.

Thank you to the candidates who have already returned responses! I have already received answers from Crista Carlino Zach Adamson, and John Barth. I will start publishing these as we receive more over the next few days.

In other news, my House of Burgess column last week had a poll I could use your help answering. I listed all the most locally and nationally challenged books, and asked readers to help me decide which one I should read. The poll is still open until Friday, so if you want to get involved, click here: <https://app2.sli.do/event/ziau0h0o>

Finally, last week I sent you some of my favorite funk-related Tiny Desk concerts from NPR Music. Here's two more from the hip-hop genre: The first is from Buddy, a singer and rapper I had never heard of before. After hearing this, I sought out his 2018 album, Harlan & Alondra, which is chock full of bangers. The next is from Tech N9ne and Krizz Kaliko. I had heard of Tech N9ne before, but I had never given him a chance before now. And, I had never heard of Krizz Kaliko before, but I'm an instant fan of both now. The way Krizz is able to switch seamlessly from technical chopper-style rapping to beautiful singing is incredible. When my wife, Ash, and I played the live version of the final song, "Speedom," for our children, we saw dance moves we'd never conceived of before.

Have a great rest of your day!

Best,

Rob Burgess
